Subsidised Service by the Social Welfare Department

The Association for Engineering and Medical Volunteer Services

was established in 1982 by volunteers from professional fields of Engineering, Medical, Auxiliary Medical and other professions. Through professional volunteer services, the Association aims to enhance the independent living capabilities of people with disabilities.

Service Brief

Supported Employment Service was first introduced to Hong Kong in 1988. With the subvention from the Social Welfare Department, the Association started providing this service in 1995. Due to service reorganization, the service name has been changed from Supported Employment Service to Supported Employment Training for Persons with Disabilities, effective from 1 April 2024. The Service capacity is 94. (50 for Tai Hang Tung office and 44 for Tuen Mun office)

Service Objective

Supported Employment Training for Persons with Disabilities aims at arranging employment opportunities in the open market for persons with disabilities who have difficulties in employment and provides them with support services. We provide on-the-job follow-up and counseling to persons with disabilities to assist them to work stably in the open employment market and integrate into society.

Service Target

Persons with disabilities who are capable of open employment and have job motivations, including persons in mental recovery, physically or mentally handicapped persons and persons with other disabilities.

Service Application

Applicants may apply for the service through the following channels:

1. Apply directly through a referral agency; or
2. Apply through the Central Referral System for Rehabilitation Services of the Social Welfare Department via a referral agency.

Application Procedure

Service Withdrawal

Voluntarily withdraw from the service

Service users can fill out the Voluntary Withdrawal Form to complete the service termination procedure if he/she wants to withdraw from the service.

Involuntarily withdraw from service

The service unit may discharge the service users in one of the following situations:

1. The service user can work stably in the open employment market and no longer need follow-up service; or
2. The behavior of the service users put themselves or others in jeopardy; or
3. The service user lacks motivation to work or find a job; or
4. The service users' mental state is not suitable for open employment; or
5. The service no longer meets the needs of the service users.
